Twelve local students earn scholarships from the Orrstown Bank Foundation

Twelve area students are headed to college with some help from the Orrstown Bank Foundation.

They were selected by an independent group of local educators who reviewed 90 applications. They chose the scholarship recipients based on academic achievement, leadership qualities, and service to their schools and community.

The foundation began awarding scholarships in 2006. Since then, 109 students have received scholarships totaling $107,500.

2015 Orrstown Bank Foundation Scholarship Recipients:

Justin Charles, a graduate of Newport High School, will attend Penn State where he will major in architectural engineering.

Andrea Crider, a graduate of Greencastle-Antrim Senior High School, plans to attend Grove City College.

Patrick Doyle, a graduate of Chambersburg's Career Magnet School, will study industrial engineering at Penn State's Mont Alto Campus.

Zoey Gillespie, a graduate of Cedar Cliff High School, plans to study accounting when she begins the fall semester at Penn State's Berks Campus.

Sean Heraty graduated from Greencastle-Antrim Senior High School and is heading to Penn State to major in aerospace engineering.

Victoria Hoffeditz, a graduate of Chambersburg Area Senior High School, is attending Toccoa Falls College and plans to major in cross cultural studies.

Lily McDowell is a graduate of Chambersburg Area Senior High School. She will major in physical therapy at Lebanon Valley College.

Benjamin Nye, a graduate of Shippensburg Area Senior High School, is attending American University where he will major in international studies with a minor in Spanish and broadcast journalism.

Hannah Piper graduated from Waynesboro Senior High School. She will study nursing at Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

Courtney Singley, recipient of the G. Leonard Fogelsonger Foundation scholarship, graduated from Shippensburg Area Senior High School. She plans to major in architecture and minor in Japanese at Penn State.
